Farmers Know

that Production is only one-half—and sometimes the lesser half—of successful farming.

MARKETING—The handling and sale of your product—securing the highest price under all conditions—that too is a doorway to success.

BUYING also is important. To know where and how to buy is the basis of successful merchandising and the farmer is a merchant as well as a farmer.

The production end of the business is yours. IN MARKETING and BUYING our facilities are at your service. We can handle all your Grain, giving you track quotations or handle on consignment.

Our Livestock Commission Department will handle in the most efficient way your livestock, and our Co-operative Buying Department can supply the needs of your farm.

Grading Up The Dairy Herd

Under the auspices of the Red Deer Agricultural Society, Mr. C. H. Hutton, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental farm, Lacombe, gave a valuable address at Heman's Hall, Sylvan Lake, on Friday, Nov. 17th. Mr. T. B. Millar presided.

Mr. Hutton's theme was the grading up of dairy cattle. If pure-bred cows had 7,000 lbs. per year average, he had charts showing the yields given by pure-bred heifers, by high grade heifers, and by grade cows, and showed that, whereas the eight grade cows averaged 6,885 lbs. of milk a year the other groups averaged 10,772 lbs. and 10,013 lbs. respectively. Mr. Hutton emphasized the fact that, while the high grades and purebreds cost more to start with, the cost of maintenance, food and labor was no greater than with grades, while the returns were 50 per cent greater. He strongly urged putting the best purebred dairy breed bull available at the head of a herd. He had his doubts about the dual purpose cow, unless there was a lot of free range. Raising 60 head on 80 and 50c, and on 20c an acre, the land was not profitable in his opinion. He also strongly advocated the weighing of the milk of individual cows, in order to get rid of those who did not pay for their keep.

Another phase of Mr. Hutton's address was the winter feeding of green feed—grass and cut—under silage, to dairy cattle. Mr. Hutton figured out that the feed from the silo cost 16c. per lb. of butter, as compared with 22c. without the silage. The silo, which could be cheaply constructed and filled, provided a juicy, green feed to take the place, to some extent, of roots, which could not be raised economically in Alberta, owing to the shortage of labor for cultivation.

Mr. Hutton was asked many questions about alfalfa, etc. Mr. Hutton's judgments are always given carefully and moderately, and are always reliable because they are based on Central Alberta conditions.

Suit Over The Arlington Hotel

Napoleon F. Charrier and Morris Orton, Red Deer, sued Mrs. Edith McCright and Mrs. Eleanor Pennington, before Chief Justice Harvey at Edmonton for the refund of $11,000 already paid on an agreement of sale for the Arlington hotel, Red Deer, and an injunction restraining the defendants from taking further proceedings to disclaim for the same. The $11,000 unpaid, C. C. McCull, K.C., is appearing for the plaintiffs, and O. N. Biggar, K.C., and Mr. Payne, Red Deer, for the defendants.

Plaintiffs leased from the owners, the defendants, on March 29, 1913, the property known as the Arlington hotel, Red Deer, for $525 per month for a term of five years, and alleged the agreement contained a clause stating that in event of the plaintiffs failing to secure a liquor license, the lease would be terminated. By a concurrent agreement plaintiffs also agreed to purchase good will, fixtures, etc., of the hotel for $15,000, payable $5,000 down, and balance in five equal yearly payments. Again arrangements were made to assign liquor license to the plaintiffs on condition that if the license was not granted the agreement should become null and void and the amount of the purchase money refunded.

On March 20, 1916, plaintiffs made their $2,000 payment and notified defendants that in view of the prohibitory legislation coming into effect July 1, payment was made under protest, and if after July 1 plaintiffs should be prohibited from conducting a licensed hotel they should consider the agreement of March 29, 1913, null and void. On July 1, 1916, plaintiffs gave up possession of the Arlington and asked for return of the $11,000, a lien on the chattels, and an injunction restraining defendants from taking further proceedings to disclaim.

No Statutory Enactments With regard to the allegation that plaintiffs are prevented by statutory enactments of legislation to continue as hotel proprietors defendants say there are no statutory enactments to prevent Charrier and Orton from continuing as hotel proprietors in the Arlington. The result of the prohibitory legislation was only to remove one source of revenue. Defendants ask that the action be dismissed, a lien granted on goods and chattels for balance of the purchase price, and a declaration that the lease is still valid.

Judgment was reserved.

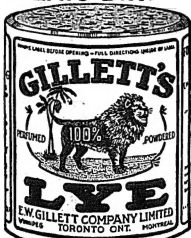

Assessment Cases

Judge Ives has given judgment dismissing the case of the city of Red Deer against the Western General Electric Co., for taxes for 1914 and 1915 on special franchise assessment. The Judge said in part:

"The result is that the plaintiffs' action to recover municipal taxes from the defendant should be dismissed with costs."

G. T. P. Townsley Co. v. Hays, an appeal of the appeal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Townsley Co. from the assessment of the Rural Municipality of Hays on their lots at Lacombe and Elora was heard before His Honor Judge Mahaffy at Red Deer on Wednesday. Mr. Frank Ballard appeared for the company, and Secretary-treasurer T. Q. Moore for the municipality. The company contended that the assessment was a way too high; the municipality showed that the lots were assessed on the same basis of value as surrounding lots. The appeal was dismissed.

GILLET'S LYE EATS DIRT

National Service Commission Is Not Recruiting Scheme

The Aim Of The Work Is To Learn The Man Power of Canada And The Best Way of Utilizing It To Help The Dominion and Empire

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Preparation is being made by R. B. Bennett, M.P., and the National Service directorate for the proposed "National Service Week" at the first of January. Within the next fortnight several hundred thousand circulars will be sent out, and this will be followed by an extensive advertising campaign, while fully a million cards will be issued. They are to be filled in and returned. The idea is to take an inventory of the man power of Canada, and to ascertain definitely what each able-bodied man is doing, whether serving the Empire at home or abroad, engaged in an industry vital to the country or disqualified physically for service, and whether the work of each of such a character as could be done by women or whether no real barrier to enlistment exists.

From such a taking of stock it is hoped that not only will the country's industries secure the men they need, but that any deficiency in recruiting to the promised total will be supplied.

It is being emphasized again, however, that the popular conception of the national service is wrong. It is not a recruiting organization. That is the duty of the military. It is designed to ascertain the man power of the country.

The White Indian

You can't always tell a man's color by his face, Red "wait-a-minute" is a matter of character rather than countenance.

Perhaps this has never been more fully illustrated than in the case of Philip Big Swan, a Treaty Indian, and an ex-pupil of the Church of England School on the Canadian Indian Reserve. Philip Big Swan's income is not great, but he has voluntarily forwarded to the Secretary of the South Alberta branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund the sum of $10.00 as a contribution to the fund. He says he cannot go himself to fight for the liberty of his people, but he wants to do his bit to help others.

Is everybody in this community as white as Philip Big Swan of the Peigan Reserve?

Rocky Mountain House

November 21, 1916.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Allen have moved into the residence formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Taylor. Oley Mos, who has been engineer on the C.N.R. on the C.N.R. since last spring, gave up this run the beginning of the week and is getting a passenger run, and left with his family last Tuesday morning. John P. Campbell is now pulling the west extra.

Cody Spougouge, of Big Valley, was on the west end of a week and was successful in getting a deer.

Ben Dickens was a visitor to Sylvan Lake last week, returning on Thursday evening.

Levi Smith has been laid up with a very sore back for the last few days. Mrs. Harry Butterworth, who has been spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Smith, left a few days ago for her home at Calgary.

Mrs. Matt Carlson left Tuesday morning for the Calgary hospital. Mrs. Carlson has been ill for some time, and we hope that the treatment of the hospital will be a change for the better. Mr. Carlson accompanied her to Calgary and will remain there for a short time.

J. D. Robertson, of the 187th Batt., arrived last week on a visit. Red certainly looks good in his uniform and is still in good humor.

The Crowder Bros. of the 21st Batt., are spending a few days with their mother here this week. The tender of the C.N.R. mixed jumped the track this side of Hoberg last Friday evening and the train was delayed a few hours. The Saunders Creek Coal Company are making a number of new mining cars. It looks as if the Company with the good coal are going to have something to brag about this winter. If it keeps warm weather like this all winter we will have a much nicer winter than we had last summer. Or did we have a summer?

Mrs. Haworth last week received a shipment of pure-bred chickens from Ontario. They were White Plymouth and Blue Orpingtons. Looks as though this settlement ought to have some good poultry soon.

Enthusiasm Lost By Liberals For A War-Time Election

Making Concessions to Quebec Sir Wilfrid Alienates Many Patriotic Liberals

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—Election talk has suddenly ceased at Ottawa as it is suddenly started. The explanation for the cessation of election rumors is as simple as the story of how they commenced. They were started by the leaders of the Liberal organization, who had definitely made up their minds to force an election and refuse an extension of Parliament in this coming session. They have stopped because there has been a surprising change in public sentiment during the past two weeks, and the Liberal campaign managers are not quite so certain now as they were a fortnight ago that they would win an appeal to the people at the present time.

ALL FOR A PURPOSE

At that time there was thought to be a wave of sentiment against the Government, of which the Liberals wanted to take advantage. Liberal Provincial Governments had been winning, bye-elections were going Liberal, there was generally reported by the agents of the Liberals throughout the country that there was a feeling of disquiet at throughout the Dominion, that the people were nervous in a state of high tension, and that everything looked favorable for an Opposition victory. This was the situation when a meeting of the Opposition organization was held several weeks ago in the Capital. They decided to refuse an extension of Parliament and force an election. Thus started the election rumors—all for a purpose.

ASTONISHING CHANGE

But the last couple of weeks has seen an astonishing change in public sentiment, according to reliable reports received at the Capital from all parts of the Dominion. The chief cause of this sudden swinging of the pendulum has been the refusal of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to join in the formation of a Parliamentary Committee to stimulate recruiting and help in the general cause of the Empire. The Liberals have not been making much of the facts are that Sir Wilfrid took a full week to make up his mind and consulted first all his political advisers. It was his original intention either to accept the committee as it stood or else to propose a counter committee of business men, agriculturists, etc., to make the appeal. This was the advice of Hon. William Pugsley, one of his English-speaking advisers. Mr. Pugsley left Ottawa believing this was to be done. It was so announced in the official Liberal press. But in the meantime Sir Wilfrid had apparently consulted other advisers, or his own mind changed. What ever happened, to the surprise and consternation of the Ottawa Liberals, it was announced Sir Wilfrid had decided to decline to cooperate. There is not the slightest doubt it was a concession to Quebec, as Sir Wilfrid is largely counting on the support of Quebec to carry him over at the next election. But if he has held Quebec he has alienated an enormous following of patriotic Liberals who think along Imperial lines and who are interested, not so much in winning elections, as in winning the war.

ENTHUSIASM LOST

That, politically, Sir Wilfrid has made a great mistake is generally admitted by Liberal politicians, and they have as a result suddenly lost their enthusiasm for an election. Election talk has suddenly vanished and sporting politicians at the Capital are now offering wagers in the thousands that the Liberals will not propose an extension of Parliament when the bill is introduced at this coming session. In addition to the mistakes of Sir Wilfrid, the firm and vigorous handling by Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues of the C.P.R. strike, which threatened to be a national disaster, has greatly raised the stock of the Government. No Prime Minister ever handled a more delicate and more serious situation. Sir Wilfrid, as diplomatically, as quickly or as energetically as did Sir Robert Borden. This somewhat spectacular incident has apparently brought a keener realization to the people of Canada that during the past two and a half years of stress and strain, such as Canada has never before seen, there has been constantly on the job at Ottawa a square-jawed, level-headed man, who, quietly and unobtrusively, has done his job in a remarkably efficient manner, has furnished the country an honest administration and has with unflinching patriotism seen that Canada has played a noble part in the struggle for liberty and democracy on the plains of France and Flanders. That, in a word, Sir Robert Borden is a man to be trusted at the present crisis.

Synopsis of Canadian North-West Land Regulations.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section along-side his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

LIVING WITHOUT FOOD

If there were no soldiers, how could soldiers and civilians live after the food supplies have been cut off? Science says that if he can get drinking water an ordinary man can exist about thirty days without food. At the end of that time the machinery of the body will not be spoiled, and can be entirely strengthened back to its old standard by careful feeding. Most of our body weight is fat, and it is mostly this fat which is absorbed as food during the period of starvation. We can absorb and burn up our muscles until 90 per cent. of their weight has gone. We can do the same with from 80 to 40 per cent. of our livers and digestive organs and 20 per cent. of our lungs. Our hearts can lose 10 per cent. and our brains and nervous systems can lose 5 per cent. It will thus be seen that the more vital organs, brain and heart, yield least of their valuable substance for the life of the body; whilst the less valuable substances, fat, muscles, and so on, are consumed first.

COMRADESHIP IN ARMS

Wonderful Changes in Spirit of Soldiers as Months Pass

The British Intelligence Service, in London, has issued a story told by an officer of the medical arm of the Royal Artillery. The surgeon's duties were such as to take him to military hospitals in all parts of England. In a conversation with a representative of the Official Press Bureau, the surgeon compared the strenuous days of August, 1914, with the corresponding period in 1916.

"I suppose that August, 1914," he said, "was one of the most stirring months that our people have ever lived through, and from what I can make out from the wounded men I have talked with, it looks as though August, 1916, might run it very close."

"They are magnificent, these 1916 battalions. They were families when they went out to France. A year's shared training brings men closer together than the most intimate meetings or association in civil employment. Then came the bigger part of a year, perhaps, in the trenches together. Casualties, of course, but not on a large scale. Some have come and gone, but the rest have got very close one to another in the shared life of the dug-out, the trench, and the billets."

"Then came the last of July—a great date, that—with its breakfast time advance, and the beginning of really great things. A sudden end had come to that extraordinarily intimate life, which I set into your blankets in the dug-out when you're in the trench, and we cut our meals together of the same old sugar box table, and I often take my olefin in place of my own, and you sometimes curse to find you're accidentally put on my trench boots in the dark. It's a tremendous revolution."

SELFISH SUPER-HUNS

Arieteerats Who Refuse Taxes and Promise Dole

Indignation was caused throughout Germany by the action of the officials and nobles of Mecklenburg-Schwerin who refuse to pay the war taxes, because under the ancient class laws of the Grand Duchy they are immune from taxation. At a meeting held at Rostock the officials and aristocrats passed the following resolution: "The nobility and public officials decline to pay the war taxes demanded from them by the authorities and solemnly protest against the unjustified violation of their privileges. We will not submit to the measure passed by the Diet at the request of the representatives of the City of Rostock, as we consider our privileges inviolable and cannot be compelled to cover the deficiencies of the cities and communities from our incomes. To prove our patriotism, however, we are ready to contribute voluntarily certain sums to the support of needy families of our soldiers."

A Popular Bargain Sale

The Homemakers' Bargain Sale, that the Best Furniture Co., are now conducting should prove a boon to every housekeeper in the district, who has any idea of buying a new piece of furniture this year.

Furniture, like other lines, has taken a big advance during the past year, but with the big reductions this firm is now offering, you can purchase many lines at a price, which is less than what can possibly be replaced to-day at wholesale prices.

The Best Furniture Co. carry a large and well assorted stock, they have always enjoyed the reputation of honest and fair dealing and when they advertise bargains, you can always depend on getting a bargain.

There is nothing more useful, or acceptable for Christmas gifts, than a nice piece of furniture, it is useful as well as ornamental, and will last for years to come.

This sale coming at this season of the year gives you a splendid opportunity to buy a good serviceable Christmas gift, at a bargain price. Read Best's advt. elsewhere in this issue.

A Righteous Cause

To the Editor of "The News"—

I am in view of the unhappy letters of your correspondent, Mr. A. H. Russell upon the theme of "Christianity and War" I would like to quote the words of a great Frenchman, Paul Sabatier, in reply to the letter of a friend in Italy asking him to be one of a number of eminent men in Europe who were asked to sign a petition to the Powers seeking for immediate peace. This was before Italy had joined the entente allies.

"It is the honor of France, Belgium and their allies," wrote Sabatier, "to have seen at once the spiritual nature of this war. No doubt we are fighting for ourselves, but we are fighting for all peoples. The idea of stopping before the goal is reached cannot occur to us, and we find some difficulty in understanding how it can occur to lookers-on. We are grateful to them for the excellence of their intentions, but we are somewhat embarrassed by the thought that we are more careful of our physical than of our moral life. Our soldiers are martyrs, they bear witness to new truth. Their defeat would mean the triumph in Europe of brute force, supported by two spiritual forces which it has mobilized—science and religion. Before permitting that it is our duty to without even thinking what may befall. And if our soldiers go down to the last man, everybody who has not yet taken arms will fight to the last cartridge, to the last stone of our mountains that we can hurl against a Kultur which is naught but the worship of the material life. The golden calf. The France of to-day is fighting religiously: Catholics, Protestants, men of free thought—we all feel that our sufferings renew, continue and fulfill those of the innocent victims of Calvary. But they are birth pains, we may be of them; but we have not the right not to bless the present hour and take up with rejoicing the task before us."

I would only add that to the fathers and mothers of the Empire whose hearts are bleeding to-day—the sisters and wives who mourn the loss of loved ones fallen on the field of battle—it must be a source of comfort to know those whom they have lost have laid down their lives in defence of great spiritual ideals more precious than life itself. And they are able to say with their Master, "No man taketh away my life: I lay it down of myself."

Yours sincerely,
CHAS. H. HUERTIS

LESLEVILLE

Quite a number of friends and acquaintances gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. McKinnon on Monday evening's last being the ninth anniversary of their wedding. The neighbors gave them a surprise party to show the respect and esteem which they are held by the people in Leslieville. Interesting games were indulged in and a jolly time was spent after, which a sumptuous repast was served. The people then adjourned after singing "God Save the King" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The ladies of the Leslieville W.C.T.U. wish to thank the ladies of the community for their help and also for their liberal donations for the chicken supper which was held in McKinnon Bros. hall on Halloween's night, the proceeds of which amounted $59.10.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummerford and their daughter Beatrice left on Monday for Spirit Lake, Idaho. Many will regret their departure as they were a large part of the life of this neighborhood.

W. W. Ensign returned to Leslieville on Monday's train. He says it will be all right to hang at the surprise party Monday evening.

Here is the Most Practical Washing Machine Made—Exactly What You Have Always Wanted.

The Maytag Multi-Motor Washer

Complete with Engine and Swinging Winger

It is equipped with a light, powerful, compact little engine that does all the hard work of washing, and wringing, and does a bigger, better, and cheaper washing in an hour or two than you can possibly do with a wash board and tub in a day's time. This Washer takes up no more room than an ordinary wash tub, and can be used in the kitchen, laundry, dining room, on the porch or out in the yard. It requires no belts, chains or pulleys, no electricity or water power, and no waiting for the men to bring their engine from the barn.

Besides running the washer and wringer, the machine is equipped with pulleys so you can operate other small machinery such as churn, sewing machine, food chopper or anything else that does not require more than one-half horse power.

The MAYTAG MULTI-MOTOR WASHER is splendidly made of the best materials and is guaranteed against defects for a period of three years and this warranty covers the washer, wringer and engine. It is not an ordinary washing machine, but something new, with exclusive patented features that no other washer has or can have. WASH-DAY, and that is WORK-DAY, changed into PLAY-DAY. Good-bye backache, headache, nerve wreck. No woman need send out the wash tub as her grandmother did, nor turn the old-style washer as her mother did. If she has a MAYTAG MULTI-MOTOR.

Nearly FIVE HUNDRED of the Wide Awake. Up-to-date, Progressive hardware and implement dealers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are selling this machine.

HUMOR IN WAR

Not a Cavalry Charge—Just a Thrashing Machine

A London correspondent writes: "There was once a thrashing engine which attracted the curious eye of a certain engineer officer. It was working in some farm buildings, most of which had been knocked to pieces by the enemy's shell, but by one of those fatal freaks of chance or coincidence in this war, the wall of the shed that hid it from the enemy was just untouched and the engine intact. It was only a few yards from the shed door to the high road, and the engineer officer vowed to carry off the engine out of the German range, thinking with glee of the many useful services to which he could apply it. The first thing was to borrow a gun team; the second to find a few red men spirits like himself. When at last they carefully prepared a path from the shed door to the road, they brought their horses, with foot muffled in sacks, from the rear, and harnessed them to the engine, of which the further and was firmly fixed to the engine.

"The horses' feet were then unmuffled. A few cautious tugs brought the engine out of the shed down a little incline to the road. The common roused the German sentinels, and a star shell soon threw a far too bright light on the proceedings. There was no further need for concealment and the artillery horses, urged to their utmost by whip and spur, dashed off at a wild gallop along the road, while, creaking, groaning and swaying, they followed behind them the thrashing engine. What impression the noise of the horses' hoofs made on the Germans in their trenches it is impossible to say. They probably thought it was a cavalry charge. At any rate, they passed on without, breaking continually into intermittent bursts of firing, which were, however, scattered, was carried out of jeopardy into a place of safety, where it furnished the motive power for an electric light installation.

NIGHT "HELLO" GIRLS

Beds and Breakfast at the Exchanges in England

Four hundred and twenty women are taking the night duty at the London telephone exchanges. "The spirit of the women on duty is most commendable," said an official. "No raid can scare them from duty." During their twelve hours' duty they are divided into four periods of three hours each. Each has two nights on duty, followed by two nights off. Of her twelve hours of duty half an hour is allowed for supper, two hours for rest and one hour for breakfast, provided by the exchanges.

"When we have a warning of a war horse," said an official, "the telephone office is a real business. We have arrangements by which we can bring in an emergency staff. In some cases girls who live in a house where there is a telephone are volunteered to receive the other. The moment she receives a code word she rides round on her bicycle to the telephone office. We have 80 per cent of the girls on duty within half an hour of the call being sent out."

Kindness For War Horses

Soldiers who have the management of war horses know how useful it is for them to be gentle and obedient, for a vicious or timid horse might cause no end of trouble in a battle, and this is so thoroughly understood nowadays in training army horses that only kindness is allowed to be used. "In his lecture on 'The Horse,'" he is, indeed, to hear of a vicious trooper, while a soldier who is found to drop a bomb. Corporal Cowell, who knew that the fust had been started and that the bomb would explode at any moment, the great danger of the men around him, throw himself on the bomb, and was blown to pieces.

Died For His Friends

News was received of the heroic death of H. Cowell, a jeweller, one of the principal tradesmen of Ilford, near London. He was a corporal in the London Rifle Brigade, and was taking part in an attack, he was shot through the arm, which caused him to drop a bomb. Corporal Cowell, who knew that the fust had been started and that the bomb would explode at any moment, the great danger of the men around him, throw himself on the bomb, and was blown to pieces.

Fishermen Receive Medals

A naval demonstration took place at Grimsby in honor of Grimsby fishermen who have been awarded medals for distinguished conduct and devotion to duty while serving in the Grimsby mine-sweeping flotilla.

FOR HEROES' MOTHERS

Why Not Medals, Asks London Paper

The Daily Mail has never been able to understand why when a medal or cross or gold star or a "mention in despatches" is won by an officer or soldier who dies in the discharge of duty his womanhood should not receive a decoration. Only those who have suffered the bereavement of war know what consolation would be given by the award of a medal to the mothers of the fallen. The Mail's suggestion is that the medals should be given to the mothers of the fallen. The Mail's suggestion is that the medals should be given to the mothers of the fallen.

Red Cross Beds

In Great Britain some 370 auxiliary hospital beds, with 4,000 beds, have been supervised, equipped and provided with nursing staff by the Red Cross. In addition there are numbers of large hospitals in France and Belgium. So much of the work of the British Red Cross is done by volunteer workers, that for the first year, including hospitals, the total income administration and management expenses, including the unpacking, sorting and repacking of gifts after kind, amounted to only two and one-quarter per cent. of the total income.

LORD KITCHENER'S PLAN

Now the Great Soldier Proposed to Punish Germany

"Shortly before his death Lord Kitchener informed us that he regarded the conduct of Germany as some of the most atrocious things that had ever taken place outside the range of human experience," says the Morning Post. "The Germans, he said, had deliberately prepared over a long period of years for the domination of the world. In this desire they had used their subjects as spies and corrupting agents. They had used the hospitality of their neighbors to prepare their destruction. It was the crime of a whole nation, and it was a crime which they had directed against the British Empire, which had given the Germans every privilege that British subjects enjoyed. His opinion was that we should do something to punish Germany for this organized treachery, and so to mark our detestation of the system as to prevent it ever happening again. Lord Kitchener's proposal was to pass a law that for twenty years no German should be allowed to naturalize himself or to take up his domicile in the United Kingdom and the British Empire, as far as the authority of the Imperial Parliament extended, or to enter into partnership in any British business, or become a shareholder in any British company."
